

The Leaf

The Eva B. Dykes Library
Newsletter
February 2016
Vol. I, No. 4

Meet Your Librarian: Jacqueline Neath- Foster

Mrs. Neath-Foster grew up in Clarendon, Jamaica, and attended The Mico University College, where she studied to be an English/religion teacher, and the University of the West Indies, at which she studied history and library science. Her path eventually took her to Atlantic Union College and a master's degree in education. She has been at Oakwood University for almost five years. Her favorite part of librarianship is working with students.

If your major is listed to the left, Mrs. Neath-Foster is your library liaison. To talk with her about your research needs, email her at jnfoster@oakwood.edu or call her at (256) 726-7252.

- Biology
- Chemistry
- Physics
- Computer Science
- Mathematics

What's happening at the library this month?

For such a short month, February 2016 knows how to pack in the holidays — it's got Valentine's Day, Black History Month, Groundhog Day, Presidents' Day, Chinese New Year, Ash Wednesday, and Leap Day, among others. Our limited display space means we can't honor all of these holidays, but we've done our best with two.

For Black History Month, we've constructed three displays highlighting black history and achievements. You can find these displays near the bathrooms on the main floor. They cover nonfiction works, like Isabel Wilkerson's The Warmth of Other Suns; poetry and drama, including the 1961 film A Raisin in the Sun, starring Sidney Poitier; and classic fiction, including works by Toni Morrison and Arna Bontemps.

For Valentine's Day, whether you're attached or single, stop by our Blind Date with a Book display by the front desk. It has a number of books (and a couple of DVDs) that have been wrapped in brown paper and described with a few vague terms, like "Christian fiction" or "set in Alabama." Will you dare to take one of these items home, sight unseen?