Welcome, Mr. Hinton!

You'll be seeing a new face around the library — on September 6, we welcomed our new Public Services Librarian, Mr. Jeshua Hinton. Mr. Hinton comes to us from Texas, and he'll soon be joined by his wife, Tiffany, and their two young sons. If you're a student in the School of Religion, Department of English & Foreign Languages, or Department of History & Political Science, he's your new library liaison.

Thanks for your contest entries!

Many thanks to the people who submitted their entries to our Oakwoodite Identity contest over the summer. We've closed the submission portal, and we're in the process of deciding the winners. Watch this space for that announcement!

SNACK ZONE

Snacks and covered drinks are welcome in the library.

Please move to the lobby to eat meals and messy or odorous foods.

A small reminder ...

Please take note of the new signs around the library, giving guidance on quiet zones and what foods are allowed. We appreciate your cooperation in making the library a good place to study.

QUIET ZONE

Please use headphones, keep voices low, and silence devices.

Thank you!

Have you tried Skedda yet?

We have a new room reservation system, Skedda, which you can use to reserve a study room, the conference room, or Smart Classroom #2. Sign into Skedda here to make your reservation: goo.gl/1VLTxV.
